

[m3]

So the notion of convergence in \mathbb{R}^2 seems clear, and it extends naturally to \mathbb{R}^k .

But how far is a particular term in the sequence from its limit? In order to be able to answer such a question, we require a notion of distance between pairs